0 6 Explain how the writer of Source A uses words and language techniques to persuade cat owners to use the services of Cranborne Cattery.

You should provide examples from Source A in your answer.

[3 marks]

The writer uses persuasive adjectives such as 'spacious' and 'uniquely secure' to convince the reader that the cat pens are suitable for their cats, as they are large and will prevent cats from escaping. They also reassure the reader that Sarah and David have 'a wealth of knowledge and experience in cat care', so the reader knows that their cat will be properly taken care of by experts who have cared for cats in the past. The writer also uses direct address to create a friendly tone and make the reader feel as if they are being spoken to directly. Finally, the writer tries to convince the reader that their cattery is the best using the exclamative phrase 'you won't find better cat accommodation anywhere!'. This presents the idea that the cattery is the very best in the world, and aims to persuade owners that their cat should not stay anywhere else.

You will need to use both Source A and Source C to answer Question 14.

1 2 You may use a dictionary for this question.

1 4 Compare Source A and Source C in terms of what they say and how the material is conveyed.

You may wish to refer to the level of detail, presentation and language, formality, possible bias and how the writers come across.

[6 marks]

Source A is an advertisement that seeks to persuade the reader to take their cat to Cranbourne cattery, whilst Source C is a letter to parliament requesting changes to bylaws referring to cats. Although they address different topics, both texts have a persuasive purpose, so both use persuasive textual devices such as rhetorical questions. For example, Source A asks 'Do you need a holiday from your owners?', humorously addressing cats rather than the reader in order to create a light-hearted tone. The writer of Source C asks the more serious and demanding rhetorical question 'Who is going to make up my lost earnings?' to convince parliament that she deserves to be compensated, and the law needs to change.

Source A is less formal than Source C. Whilst Source C uses the formal address 'Dear Mr Harris' and the formal sign-off 'Yours faithfully', Source A uses informal textual devices such as the contraction 'won't' and colloquial phrases like 'check out'. This is because Source C is written for a formal audience (parliament) whilst Source A is written for a less formal audience (cat owners).

Both of the sources are detailed. Source A includes a range of details such as cat pen sizes and a range of features that would convince cat owners to choose the cattery. Source C includes details of several personal experiences in order to convince parliament that there are currently many problems with cats causing damage, so the law needs to be changed.
