MFS ACTIVE READING GUIDE · TEXT A (COLLEGE UPDATE: QUESTIONS 1·4, 12a, 13, 14, 15)

· Style (Q2): Optimistic college update (Option D) on plastic reduction, water coolers & cafeteria changes.

· Key: Crimson = Q1 Coolers & Q15 Wildlife | Green = Q3 Formal ('B','C') | Gold = Q12a | Navy = Q13

From: principal@college.biz

To: allstudents@college.biz

Subject: Monthly update

Dear Students

Paragraph 1 <-- [Q4 Subheading: 'You still have time' = Para 1]

First of all, a massive thank you to those of you who have already participated in the recent online survey about how we could improve our campus and the services we offer you. Haven't responded yet? The survey will remain open until the end of the month. It's quick and a doddle to complete.

Paragraph 2 <-- [Q4 Subheading: 'What you've told us' = Para 2]

We have received a fantastic response, indicating many options for improvement. So far, the main message to emerge from this survey is that you would like the college to become more environmentally-friendly. Based on this feedback, we would like to go ahead with making some positive changes on campus.

Q12a: 'appear'

Q1: Accessible spots

Paragraph 3

We will be installing free water coolers in accessible spots near classrooms and selling a wide range of reusable water bottles in the college shop. These can be bought for as little as £1.50, and will save you money in the long run. We will also no longer be using plastic bags and will only stock products that use zero or minimal packaging.

Q3: 'B' Formal

Paragraph 4 <-- [Q4 Subheading: 'Cafeteria updates' = Para 4]

We are extremely proud to announce that we are extending our menu to offer more environmentally-friendly vegetarian and vegan options in the cafeteria. We are also removing all single-use plastic crockery, cutlery and straws. Water coolers will be conveniently sited near each till. We are confident these changes will improve your dining experience.

Q3: 'C' Formal

Paragraph 5

These changes clearly demonstrate that we are taking important action against the major issues affecting the world today: climate change, scarce water resources and potential wildlife extinction. These changes are positive – each of us can make a difference in our own way. Please feel free to tweet us with any questions or ideas.

Q15: Extinction

Yours sincerely

Pam's blog: time to clean up

Pam's Beach Clean Team at work

Q7a/b: Caption

I've been participating in beach clean ups along with my local group for 10 years now. The most alarming problem we encounter is the amount of plastic being dropped or washed up on beaches every day, causing serious harm to seabirds. I can't believe how significantly this has increased over the last decade.

Q15: Seabirds

It infuriates me to see visitors to the beach leaving their litter behind. I have been known to get myself into trouble by challenging them about this. All they need to do is make use of the many nearby bins or to take their litter home with them. Another less common but troubling issue is graffiti sprayed on rocks and beach café exteriors as this is extremely difficult to remove and looks unsightly too. All we ask is for visitors to follow the beach rules which are clearly displayed on notice boards situated on most beaches.

Q5: Not winning

I understand that some people feel that we are fighting a losing battle, but we remain convinced we are carrying out a necessary service. We recycle as much as possible – bottles, cans and plastic. We remain positive, knowing we are one of many similar groups. There is definitely a global push taking place. Technology makes it so much easier to see what other groups are doing to share ideas, information and motivational stories in ways that were not previously available.

Q5: Worldwide effort

What we also find heartening is the amount of interest shown by children when I and other group members are out litter picking. They are quite happy, equipped with the right tools, to assist us in collecting litter. If everybody who visited a beach conducted a two-minute beach clean, the results would be amazing. We are always looking for more people to join our group. I see no reason why we can't all pull together to improve our immediate environment. It doesn't even have to be a beach clean. We can all collect litter anywhere – walking to the shop or to school or exercising the dog…

Article

MFS ACTIVE READING GUIDE · TEXT C (ARTICLE: QUESTIONS 9·11, 12b, 13, 15)

· Purpose: Article by Sarah Young persuading readers to adopt everyday eco-friendly habits.

· Key: Crimson = Q9 Saving Money & Q11 ('D') | Gold = Q10 Features & Q12b ('superfluous') | Navy = Q13

How to help save the planet
by Sarah Young

Q15: Endangered

Q11: 'D' Positive

Are you asking yourself what you could possibly do to help save the environment? This is a question that everybody should be asking themselves. The honest answer is simply to change your daily habits. It is much, much easier than you probably think and could make a huge difference.

When it comes to living an eco-friendly life, shopping for new clothes isn't exactly the best thing for the planet. Thanks to the popularity of swap shops there is now a way to get your fashion fix without contributing to landfill and without having to spend a penny. Otherwise known as 'swishing', the concept is simple: you bring clothes you no longer wear to an event and swap them for clothes other people no longer wear.

Grocery shopping from the comfort of your own home might feel lazy but it's actually better for the environment. It eliminates costly car trips and associated carbon emissions by using one delivery van. Additionally, major supermarkets offer customers the option of requesting no bags when ordering to be more eco-friendly and cut costs. Remember to buy only what you really need and avoid purchasing products with superfluous packaging.

Cutting meat and dairy products from your diet could reduce your carbon footprint by up to 73%. While eating a vegan diet isn't appropriate for everyone, you can help by going meatless one day a week. This would result in a significant drop in greenhouse gas emissions and you may even feel some health benefits. Farmland currently used for grazing animals could be returned to the wild, which would help to preserve endangered species.

Q9: 'spend a penny'

It's been calculated that if one million people worked from home just one day a week the planet would feel the benefit. If that's not an option for you, consider organising a carpool with co-friends or neighbours. Office workers often head out for lunch most days, but taking pre-prepared food with you and reusable bottles for water is a far more environmentally-friendly option.

Q10: Rule of 3

Massive changes to your lifestyle are not necessary. You only need to be more aware of how your actions impact the environment and to make adjustments where you can. I did it, and I haven't looked back since, so I'm sure you can succeed too. Just try it.

Q12b: 'unnecessary'
