Top Tips for Starting a Business

One in five 18 to 34 year olds have a business idea but many are afraid to set up on their own. Some young people are put off because they don't know anyone who has started a business. Another reason is anxiety about getting financial support. A third reason is fear of failing which discourages people from taking the risk. With young people more likely to be unemployed than the rest of the population, there has never been a better time to start your own business so here are some tips for having the courage to take the plunge.

For those who don't know any entrepreneurs, read case studies of start-ups or go to events for people starting a business. You could also take an Enterprise qualification at your local college. Discuss funding with your bank – you may not realise this, but banks often have schemes to support young entrepreneurs. Gain a detailed understanding of your chosen sector, by doing research or getting a temporary job in that field. You also need to know your potential customers inside out and be aware of others in the market so you stay ahead of the game.

Q5: Beat rivals

Q5: Do it properly

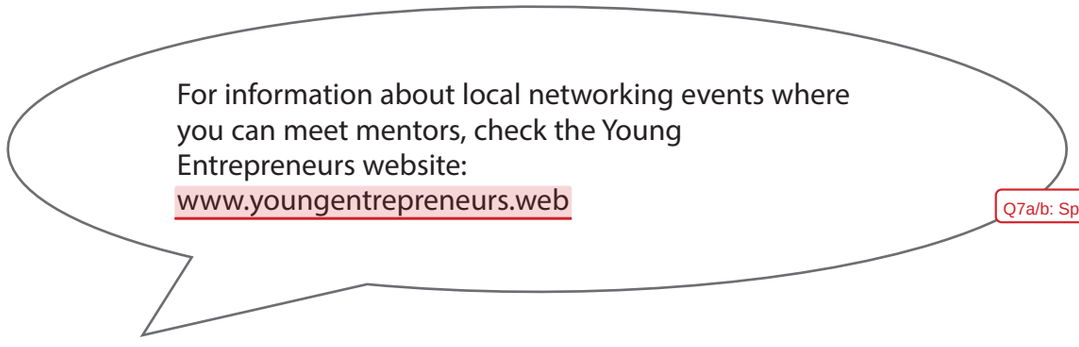

Write a business plan to develop and evaluate your ideas – and don't cut corners. Be realistic when you set targets, plan a schedule and consider the costs of setting up a company. There are templates available online and your bank will review your business plan with you. Whatever happens, you'll learn an enormous amount from starting a business and develop skills that will make you more employable.

Q8b: Business plan

There are numerous organisations that provide access to support, mentoring and technical training such as:

- Start-up Direct
- Virgin StartUp
- The Youth Enterprise Organisation.

Select a business name that reflects what your company does and is memorable. A well-designed logo can have an instant impact on your customers. Now you are ready to build your website and get your company off the ground.

Q7a/b: Speech bubble

Text C

Case studies

· Purpose: Real-life stories of young entrepreneurs explaining family help (Q9) & rewards (Q13).

Nasim

Nasim, aged 21, loved working with animals, but after completing a college course in Animal Care and Canine First Aid, he struggled to find employment. 'I applied for countless jobs, but got nowhere.' Nasim read about the Better Opportunities programme and signed up for it. His mentor Richard suggested setting up on his own, using his qualifications. With his family's support, Nasim started a dog walking company in his local area and concentrated on building up customers' trust and developing his business slowly. 'I started with three dogs and now walk twenty dogs regularly. I plan to expand into dog grooming and obedience classes.' Nasim is delighted he was willing to follow his passion. 'I'm really, really proud of what I've achieved.'

Q9: Family support

Eva

Eva, aged 17, wanted an income as a teenager but didn't want to work in retail or do a paper round. 'I was more interested in trading online.' Eva started selling her unwanted items through eBay and then friends asked her to do the same for them and paid her commission. She realised there was a market for fashionable merchandise which she could buy and subsequently sell at a profit. 'It's time-consuming and you have to be patient, but I can do it any time of the day or night and fit it round college work.' Eva isn't sure what to do when she leaves college, but thinks she will run her own business. 'I love the idea of growing my own company and being my own boss – my dad will give me advice,' she says.

Q9: Dad's advice

Q10/15: Direct addr.

Cathy

Cathy, aged 26, says: 'I really enjoy making cupcakes and biscuits for special occasions and wanted my own business.' Her first job involved making cupcakes for a friend's wedding which were well-received, so with a loan from her mum, she launched her business, Cathy's Cakes. Initially it flourished and she rented premises and employed an assistant, but after two and a half years, she accepted she wasn't making enough profit, despite working 24/7, and had to close down. 'I hadn't realised how long it would take to make hand-decorated cakes and didn't know how much to charge – it was a nightmare.' Cathy now works for a café as an employee. 'I learnt a huge amount from the experience and intend to start another company in the future. Now, though, it's good to be back working regular hours.'
