Question 1

You will be assessed on:

- Communicating information, ideas and opinions clearly, coherently and effectively
- Communicating with appropriate detail to suit purpose and audience
- Using appropriate format and structure for purpose and audience
- Conveying clear meaning and establishing cohesion using organisational markers
- Using appropriate language and register for purpose and audience
- Constructing complex sentences consistently and accurately, using paragraphs where appropriate
- Using correct spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Question 1

You have a job working on a youth magazine. You have to write an article based on the title One thing I would change in this world.

It might be:

- a specific event in history
- something that is likely to occur in the future
- the invention of a machine or piece of technology
- something more personal to you.

Your task: write the article. You should include:

- explain what you would change
- why do you want to change it?
- how would your life be different?
- how would the world be different?

- Using correct spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Question 2

You are fed up with all the litter you see in your area and have an idea about organising a sponsored litter pick to solve the problem and to raise money for charity.

Your task: write an email to your friend, explaining your idea and asking for her help in organising the event.

You should cover the following:

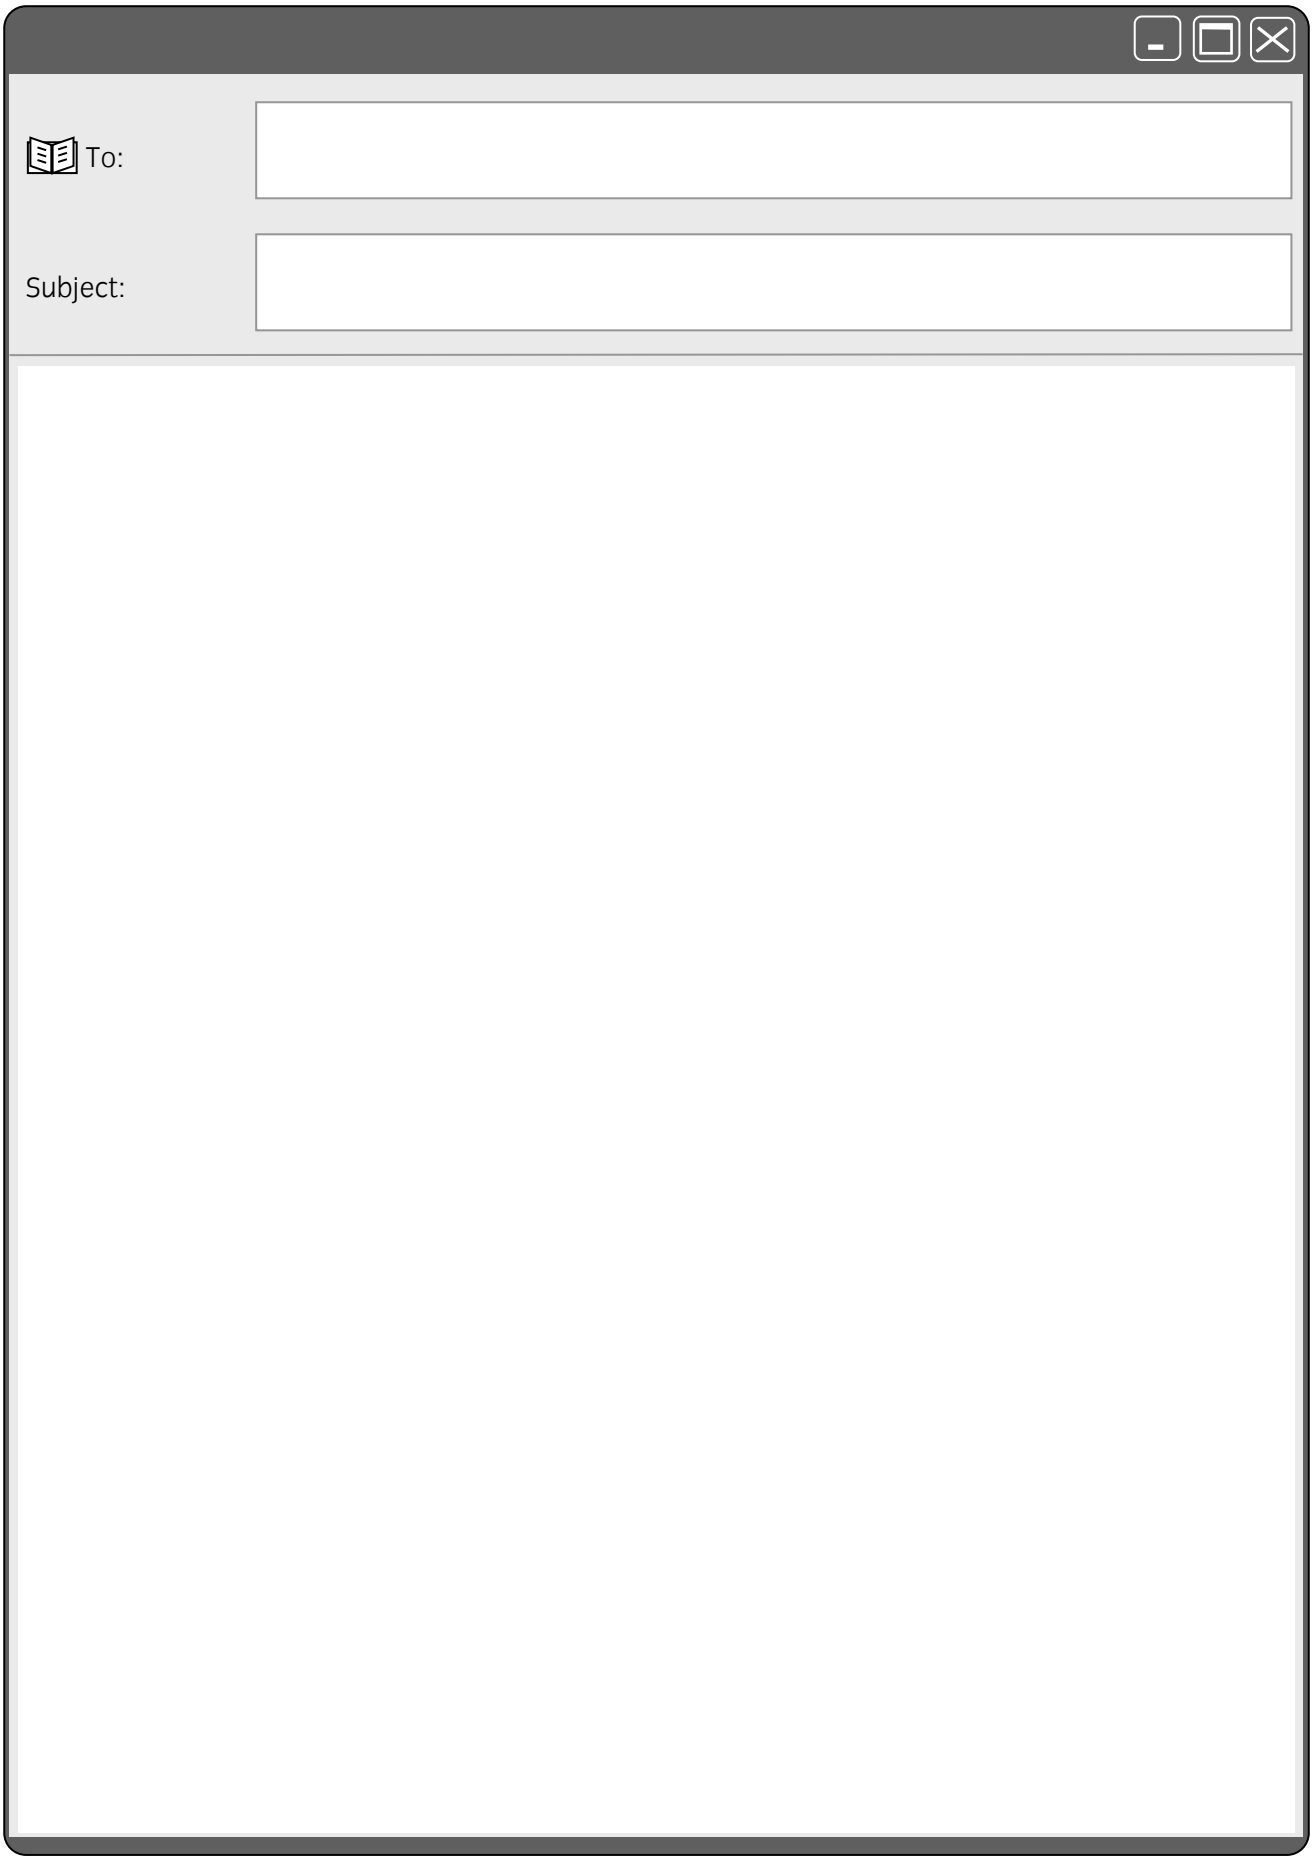

- what the problem is
- why it would be better if the problem was dealt with
- what your idea is and how it would work on the day
- the charity you would like to help
- what you would like your friend to do to help organise the day.

ONE THING I WOULD CHANGE IN THIS WORLD

If I could change one single thing in our world today, I would eliminate single-use plastic packaging and replace it with affordable, ocean-safe biodegradable materials.

Every year, millions of tonnes of discarded plastic bottles, wrappers, and bags pollute our rivers and oceans, harming marine wildlife and entering the human food chain. I want to change this because our convenience-driven habits are causing irreversible damage to ecosystems that future generations depend upon.

In my own daily life, weekly food shopping would look completely different: supermarket aisles would feature refillable glass jars and compostable plant-based packaging, removing the guilt of filling a recycling bin every week.

Across the wider world, coastlines would recover their natural beauty, fishing communities would thrive, and billions of pounds currently spent on landfill and clean-up operations could fund schools and hospitals instead. A cleaner planet is within reach if we act boldly.

Subject: Sponsored Litter Pick for Clean Coastlines — Can You Help?

Hi Maya,

I hope you are having a great week! I am writing because I am fed up with the amount of plastic bottles and fast-food litter piling up along our local canal path and park.

Clearing this rubbish would make our neighbourhood safer for wildlife, cleaner for families, and far more welcoming for everyone. To tackle it—and raise money for Keep Britain Tidy—I want to organise a Sponsored Community Litter Pick on Saturday 22 November from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm.

Volunteers will collect sponsorship per bag filled, and I have already arranged free litter pickers and heavy-duty sacks from the council. Could you please help by creating an online fundraising page and coordinating refreshments at the park cafe? Together, we can make a real difference!

Best wishes,

Tariq
