NEWTON NEWS

Newton mops up after storms

By Gemma Rose, News Editor

Newton was hammered by hail and heavy rain in a freak storm yesterday afternoon. A month's worth of rain fell in just an hour when temperatures of 28 degrees Celsius turned into heavy rain and hail. It was the most severe hailstorm to hit the UK since the Dinbury storm of 2016.

Chaos

Traffic into the town came to a standstill as water and hailstones surged across the tarmac. The flash flood caused one car to be lodged under the footbridge. Fire crews were called to set it free. Emergency services said they had received almost 200 calls for help due to flooding, fallen trees and damage to buildings.

Newton father of two Deepak Sharma said, 'One minute the kids were playing in the sandpit and the next thing massive raindrops started to fall. They just made it back to the house before the rain turned to hail. It was just as well, as the hailstones smashed, literally smashed, my greenhouse. The kids were terrified.'

The big clean-up

Businesses across town have been engaged in the clean-up operation. Hotel manager Dennis Blackmore said, 'We're so grateful to staff for staying all night to clean the place up. The carpets are ruined, and so is most of the ground floor furniture. It's complete and utter devastation and not just to our own property; most of the guests' cars were damaged too. I never, ever want to go through this again.' Car body shop owner, Graham McGrady said, 'I've been called out to survey damage and it's pretty bad. Most cars I've seen have smashed windscreens as well as dented roof and door panels. We've got some booked in for paintless dent repair already.'

The hailstones

The aftermath

Residents and businesses are now counting the cost of the storm damage. It's expected that insurance claims will reach over £1 million from damage to cars alone. That is good news for car body shops, though, especially those specialising in paintless dent repairs.

Out and about

Lessons learned

After the devastating hailstorm that hit Falton back in 2000, the government published some basic guidance for the public. If your home is badly hit by storm damage:

1. Get to a place of safety as quickly as possible.
2. Report any sewage hazards to the council.
3. Contact the local electricity distributor for any electrical issues.
4. Call the National Grid if there is any danger of a gas leak.

Subject: Catching up

Hi Fin

Sorry I couldn't reply sooner but I've been rushed off my feet. The big news here is that a MASSIVE storm hit Newton last week. There was this incredible hail, and then the whole town was gridlocked with extreme flooding. Luckily, my house didn't suffer any flood damage. The garden was completely ruined, though - the hailstones trashed the garden shed and all my flowers too!

Because of the storm, work at the car body repair shop has been busy. I'm so glad I spent time doing the additional course on paintless dent repair (PDR). You asked what exactly paintless dent repair is and why I like it. It is a way to remove dents by pushing them out. It suits my fine attention to detail and it's one of my favourite tasks. It's honestly the best way to repair a dent in a vehicle. It's also cost-effective for a couple of reasons:

- the value of the vehicle remains because you're not putting filler or paint on it, so it gets to keep its factory finish
- you're not potentially voiding the warranty by overheating the electronics.

How's work in your garage going? Are things different in Australia? One thing I've realised is how fortunate I am to have such an easy-going boss! We've got excellent teamwork and always help each other out. She's also been great at letting me have time off when I've needed it.

I know you specialised in electronics, but you really should think about getting some PDR skills too. I promise, it will be the best thing you'll ever learn. You know how patient I am and how much I love fixing dings! It's just the perfect job for me. With the huge number of cars damaged here due to the storm, it looks like I'll be kept busy with PDR for a while.

Write soon and let me know how everything is going.

Best wishes

Naomi

HOBBY HAPPINESS

By Rachel Barnes

We all spend a lot of time working and studying, but not enough time enjoying ourselves. In our fast-paced world, it's easy to forget to leave time for the things we enjoy, such as our hobbies.

Hobbies are important for our well-being. They should be a priority for all of us. They help us to switch off and relax. They are also a key part of our social life. Often people make new friends through their hobby. Hobbies can also help us to find new talents. A hobby might even help you to improve your career!

A couple cycling

A recent survey found that some of the most popular hobbies in the UK are cycling, golf, fishing and walking. Exercising like this has many benefits. It can improve both your mental and physical health beyond all recognition! However, not all hobbies involve working up a sweat. Some hobbies can be done in your own home. For example, cooking, playing cards or playing an instrument.

For those who want to be social but not exercise, there are ways around this too. One of the most popular modern hobbies is reading comic books and going to comic book conventions. A comic book convention is a gathering of comic book fans. Fans can go and meet their favourite superheroes and take selfies with them. They can also meet the writers and artists that create the comics they love.

Learning to read

One of the benefits of a hobby is that it can help children to learn. For example, many children who do not like to read books often enjoy reading comic books and dressing up or 'cosplay'. When children dress up, they often want to play and recreate the stories they have read about. After all, what child doesn't love playing?

Children can also improve their reading skills through other hobbies like singing or by reading a recipe while they learn to cook. They might not think that they are learning but by doing something they enjoy, they are having fun, while improving their basic skills.

As you can see, hobbies are important for all age groups. Make sure you leave enough time in the day for yours.

Learning to read

Aim:

This report will discuss if children who have hobbies have better literacy skills. Can hobbies help children to learn? Are all hobbies good for children?

Why is it important to read and write?

Reading and writing are two of the most important skills we can learn. From an early age we are taught how to:

- say the alphabet
- write our names
- sound out words.

Parents and carers can help by reading stories to their children at bedtime. Literacy is important because it helps us to understand the world through reading about subjects like science and history. Children who read are often happier, healthier and more confident. As we grow up, it's important to have strong literacy skills so that we can get a job. Without good reading skills it could be difficult to understand documents like contracts and official letters.

Can hobbies help?

Research shows that hobbies can help children to learn. One of the best ways to learn is by doing something you enjoy. For example, lots of children love superheroes. Parents and carers can help a child build their skills by giving them comic books to read. Children can also learn new reading skills by taking part in activities like treasure hunts. Even looking after a pet can help. Children can read about their furry friend.

Are all hobbies good for children?

Some people worry that children spend too much time playing computer games. However, children can learn new words through playing computer games. Many of the characters from the games also have children's books written about them. Children should take part in a mix of activities. This will keep their minds healthy. Parents and carers can use what they are interested in to encourage them to read and write.

Recommendations:

The most important thing is that parents and carers help their children to read. If a child is enjoying something, they will find learning easier.
