Subject: Your new course

Hi Lee, [Friendly greeting]

I was very pleased to hear that you are starting your new course next month. It is a fantastic step forward for your career, and I am sure you will do really well if you stay organised from the very beginning. Although balancing studies with everyday life can feel tough at first, having a positive attitude will help you succeed. [Encouragement & Attitude]

To do well on the course, I recommend attending every single lesson and taking neat notes. Always ask your tutor for help whenever you do not understand a topic; they are always happy to explain things clearly. Making new friends is also much easier than you might think. Try arriving a few minutes early to chat with your classmates in the common room, and suggest forming a friendly study group where you can revise together before exams. Joining college clubs during lunch breaks is another great way to meet people who share your interests. [Study & Social Tips]

Managing your workload sensibly is the secret to avoiding stress. Personally, I use a wall planner and write down all my assignment deadlines as soon as I receive them. I always set aside one quiet hour every evening for study, and I break larger projects into small, manageable daily tasks so I never have to rush at the last minute. If you ever feel overwhelmed, remember to take short breaks to recharge. Good luck with your studies! [Workload Management]

Best wishes, [Friendly Sign-off]

Jordan Bennett

Riverside Sports Centre Review | Jordan Bennett

Review Form

[Review Title]

I recently visited the new Riverside Sports Centre with my family to try out the facilities. Overall, we had an enjoyable visit, but there were a few areas that could definitely be improved. [Visit Context]

On the positive side, the centre offers a fantastic range of activities, including a large swimming pool, modern gym equipment, and indoor badminton courts. The monthly membership fees are very affordable, and the reception staff were polite and welcoming when we arrived. The fitness instructors were also very helpful, demonstrating how to use the exercise machines safely. [Facilities & Staff]

However, there were also some disappointing problems. The changing rooms were crowded and the floor was quite wet and slippery. In addition, the cafe was closed during our weekend visit, which meant we could not purchase any healthy snacks or hot drinks. To improve the venue, management should hire extra cleaning staff, ensure the cafe is open during peak hours, and install additional water refill stations. [Constructive Feedback]
