Looking Ahead: My Vision for the Next Five Years

[Article Headline]

By Jordan Bennett | Young Professional Perspective

[Byline]

Looking ahead to the next five years fills me with hope and ambition. During this time, I want to make real progress in both my work and personal life. In my career, my main goal is to complete my Level 3 course in business administration and step up into a team leader role. Building up strong digital skills and supporting new apprentices will help me do a great job at work. In my personal life, I hope to save enough money for a deposit on my first home and keep supporting my family.

[Personal & Career]

A Greener, Fairer World

[Subheading]

Beyond my own goals, there are big changes I want to see across the wider world. First of all, we need faster action to tackle climate change; countries should invest more in clean green energy like wind and solar power to cut pollution. In addition, cutting down on single-use plastics and planting more trees in towns would make our living areas cleaner and healthier. I also hope governments invest properly in local schools, training, and healthcare so that everyone gets a fair chance to succeed in life.

Why These Changes Matter

[Subheading]

I want these changes to happen because everyone deserves a stable, secure future. Doing well in a job feels great; however, personal success is not enough if our local communities are struggling with high living costs and dirty environments. In conclusion, focusing our efforts on greener living and mutual support over the next five years will create a healthier, fairer world for future generations. By working together, we can turn these practical hopes into reality.

Subject: Complaint

Dear Mr Johnson, [Polite greeting]

I am writing to complain about an order I placed with Meal Express yesterday evening (Order Reference: #ME-8392). Your menu leaflet promises freshly cooked meals delivered hot and on time; however, my experience was completely unacceptable and fell far below what you advertise. [Reason for Writing]

Firstly, the delivery arrived forty-five minutes late. When the food got here, it was barely warm: the burgers were soggy, and the large chips were cold and greasy. On top of that, two cans of lemonade and a tub of garlic dip that I paid for were missing from the bag. When I asked the delivery driver about the missing items, he was unhelpful, refused to look at the receipt, and simply walked away. [Delay & Food Quality]

Because your service failed to deliver what was promised, I expect this matter to be resolved quickly. I am asking for a full refund of £24.50 for the spoiled food and missing drinks. I have attached a photo of my receipt as proof of purchase. In addition, I ask that you look into why this order was delayed and speak with your delivery drivers about customer service. I look forward to your reply and confirmation of my refund. [Action Required]
