[3 marks]

The writer uses emotive adjectives such as ‘calming’ and ‘peaceful’ to persuade the reader that the Calm app will make them feel relaxed. When the writer lists the serene sounds of a ‘flowing river, garden rain, tropical beach, crackling fireplace’, they use a range of adjectives and adverbs that encourage the reader to imagine themselves in the calm settings of a ‘river’, ‘garden’, ‘beach’ or ‘fireplace’. Furthermore, the writer uses the sibilance of ‘calming scene and soundscape’ to create a soft and soothing tone.

1 4 Compare Source A and Source C. Write about what they say and how the material is conveyed.

You may wish to refer to the level of detail, presentation and language, formality, possible bias and how the writers come across.

[6 marks]

Source A is a more biased source than source C. Source A advertises an app using persuasive techniques including triples such as 'help you reset, reduce anxiety, and be still in your moment'. In contrast, source C is informative and more factual, as the aim of the source is to help people get to sleep rather than to advertise an app. Source C therefore includes more facts such as 'our bodies produce melatonin'.

Both sources are formal and avoid using contractions and slang, as they both aim to provide information that should be taken seriously. However, the focus and levels of detail in the sources are different. Source A focuses on informing readers about the Calm App and gives extremely detailed information such as '40 peaceful nature settings' and '15 to 45 minutes' to persuade the reader using facts about the app. In contrast, source C does not use specific and detailed figures, but offers facts more generally and provides tips about sleep. The different focuses of the sources are reflected in the images, with source A providing an image of the Calm App and source C depicting teenagers sleeping.
